

Preventing Suicide Among Healthcare Professionals and Staff

JOIN US FOR A SUICIDE SAFER CARE WEBINAR!

Professionals in the healthcare field are significantly more likely to end their lives by suicide than the general population. As healthcare professionals balance caring for patients with concerns for their own wellbeing, the COVID-19 pandemic and other events have exacerbated their stress, moral injury and fatigue. And when healers commit suicide, their tragic deaths can have a ripple effect, increasing the vulnerability of other professionals, patients and family members.

Join our webinar to understand the dynamics of the crisis and learn concrete strategies to:

- Help support primary care providers and teams,
- Address suicide risk,
- Prevent suicide deaths among staff, and
- Implement effective postvention.

This training will also provide tips from the Association of Clinicians for the Underserved on how organizations can self-assess their readiness to prevent and respond to provider suicide.
